Support and Repair ARRIS Global Services

SERVICE OVERVIEW:

Expert. Flexible. Efficient. Our technical services and support teams are all that and more. They're your lifeline for delivering high-value services, content, and applications to your customers. With their help, you can leverage your data and digital video network assets to solve today's increasingly complex voice, data, and video delivery challenges. As a result, you'll introduce the next-generation user experiences your customers want—and reduce installation and services costs in the process. More importantly, our support programs can help you reduce the cost of acquiring and retaining subscribers and help monetize your existing network assets.

The ARRIS Technical Services team (part of ARRIS Global Services) offers intensely focused expertise for rapid resolution of technical issues with ARRIS products and their operation in your network. Our commitment to service excellence is built on a heritage of providing carrier-grade (“five 9’s”) products and service delivery. Your technical support is provided by committed and highly trained professionals with years of experience, backed up by state of the art local support centers, test labs and deep access to product engineering and design resources.
